executed: such as Books, Pamphlets, Circulars, Cards, Handbills, etc., on as good terms as at any other office.

To the friends of Temperance and the public generally we now make our appeal in behalf of this paper. The publisher feeling it a matter of importance to the interest of the Temperance cause in the District, as well as the general interest of the cause, and having been, as he conceives, Provisionally placed in a situation at this time when he can mingle this interest with that of the business men, and thereby render a double service to the community, and still further open a medium of communication by which our principles may be extended far and wide, at a cheap rate. He has purchased a printing establishment, so as not only to be able to put a daily paper regularly to press, but also a weekly, and still further, be able to do any other printing the public may be pleased to have done; and he assures them that they shall have no cause of complaint. He has made arrangements by which he can devote his time to the interest of the office and the paper; and, having employed Mr. Charles W.
Fenton, who will be always on the spot, to conduct the printing, he has no doubt but that general satisfaction will be given. We shall make arrangements to have the earliest news; also the proceedings of Congress.

We wish all who are indebted for the paper up to this time to pay up, as the affairs of the tri-weekly must be closed. They will perceive that we are about to give them a better paper, double the number, at the same price.

While the "COLUMBIAN FOUNTAIN" will be devoted to the cause of Temperance, its columns will be enriched by original articles on subjects calculated to interest, instruct, and benefit its readers. It is intended so to blend variety, amusement, and instruction, as that the various tastes of its patrons may be (as far as it is practicable) gratified.
Commerce, Literature, and Science, and every other subject of interest, not inconsistent with Temperance and morality, will receive the earnest attention of the publishers.
Nothing of a sectarian, political, or personal character will be admitted.

A CARD.

THE subscriber begs leave to say to members of Congress and others, that he has several good rooms which he will let on accommodating terms, either furnished or unfurnished, located on the South side of Pennsylvania avenue, between 9th and 10th streets, and equidistant between the Capitol and the public offices. I have also two of the best cellars in the city, which I will rent in part or the whole, or receive goods on storage.
This is a good opportunity for butchers or market people.
L. S. BECK.

JUST FROM THE MINT!!!

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

L. S. BECK & SON, would take this method of notifying the citizens of Washington

For the Columbian Fountain.

THE ACTOR.
BY JAMES LITTLE.

"On this poor breast no dawn of bliss shall beam;
The pleasure past supplies a copious theme.
For many a dreary thought and many a doleful dream!" THE ODYSSEY OF HOMER BY POPE.

MR. EDITOR: Of all the occupations in which men are engaged, the occupation of the Drama is the most irksome. The actor's life is a life of toil and self-denial; for those pleasures, which are enjoyed by others, are inaccessible to him. After the representation of a piece, which generally occurs at night, he proceeds to the green-room for the purpose of ascertaining which character he is to sustain in the next; and this he ascertains by referring to a sheet of paper on which are most legibly inscribed the names of the dramatis personee. If the character which has been assigned to him should be one with which he is familiar, he returns to his chamber, throws himself upon his couch, and sleeps soundly. But if, on the other hand, the character should be one with which he is unacquainted, he, in the tragic vein, leaves the room, with curses in his mouth, and hastens to his chamber—but not to repose. Taking a seat at the centre table, he opens a book which contains the play; and after reading the character, he begins to commit it to memory; and whilst others are enjoying the honey-heavy-dew of slumber, the poor actor, with a vi-sage truly woe-begone, is walking up and down in his solitary apartment, endeavoring to fix in his memory, two or three hundred lines of blank verse. And ah! if you could behold him while thus engaged—the very quintessence of that maniac whom he is to represent—you would indeed pity him.

Morning appears, and the actor, with a burning brain and an empty stomach, peregrinates to the house of Thespis. At his arrival the prompter's shrill whistle summons the performers to their several positions; and then, the play, which is to be represented on the evening, before an admiring auditory, is rehearsed. The manager, being confident that the performers will be prepared to do justice to their parts, dismisses them, and returns to the discharge of other duties. The performers, being dismissed, go to their rooms, and employ the residue of the day in preparing themselves for the evening's performance.

Night appears; and again the well graced, but hard-favored child of misfortune, after having done ample justice to a bottle of maderia, proceeds to the theatre, and enters his dressing room. Presently the cos-tumer enters with a Richard's dress. "My dear sir, you will play Richard to-night—shall I assist you to dress now?" "Yes, and do you harness me well—why did the manager assign the character of Richard to me? I fear I shall not do justice to it."
"My dear sir, you are too severe on your tragic powers, you distrust when there is no occasion for it; dismiss, therefore, such idle, chimerical, deteriorating hallucinations from your mind, and be assured that you will perform Richard admirably—you will eclipse the great original." "Costumer, you have indeed revived my drooping spirits, and I believe I can do the part, after all. Let me see:—'Now is the winter—winter—pshaw! to stick in the first solilo-quy, is monstrous—you are making me too crooked behind—winter of our discontent, made glorious summer by the son of York.'" "Beautiful! bravo!" exclaims the manager, who at this moment enters the dressing room in ecstasy: "you will play it charmingly: there is an excellent house too." "Unless you leave the room I will not dress. I say most emphatically, I will not dress—avaunt!" "Charming! delightful!" again exclaims the manager, and immediately withdraws. "Costumer have you done? Now, let me see. Ah! here is my Garter; here is my George, and here is my wig. Ah! all is right." And then the actor, arrayed in gorgeous vestments—the costume of the Duke of York, descends to the green-room.

The theatre, from the parquette to the third tier, is crowded; the performers are caparisoned, and the time for the ponderous curtain to rise has arrived. A pause, and then the curtain bell tinkles; the viv-ifying strains of music from the orchestra are silenced, and the curtain rolls up. The piece is now open; and the poor actor, prepared or not prepared, must appear, and expose himself to the contempt or approbation of a disgusted or admiring auditory.

If he should be so fortunate as to make a successful hit, as it is termed, the manager takes him by the hand at the moment he exits. But if, on the other hand, he should be so unfortunate as to make an unsucces-ful hit, the enraged manager scowls upon him, and threatens to reduce to the lowest standard, his pay. And to this treatment the unfortunate responds only in sighs truly lamentable; hastens to a coffee-house, and, in the lethe of a wine bottle, drowns the remembrance of it.

Thus the poor, wretched, deluded, and heart-broken actor goes on, until his head becomes whitened by the frost of seventy winters, and then, having reached the end of his earthly career, he expires. But where, O! where, does his immortal soul find a resting place? Does it find one in the bower of immortal bloom, where the zephyrs of Paradise, impregnated with the resuscitating balm of the tree of life, refresh the faithful? We are inclined to believe that it does not; for the circumstances by which it was encompassed in life were such as to render a transportation thither impracticable.

Thomas F. Marshall, the eloquent Kentuckian, whose reformation from temperance by the Washingtonians, while a member of the 27th Congress, rang through the whole nation, and whose eloquent temperance speeches in the Eastern cities thrilled the heart of every friend to the cause, fell from his high estate and broke his solemn pledge at Lexington, week before last.
Pecuniary embarrassment, (for his library had been sold for debt, we understand) combined with disappointed ambition, was doubtless the cause. Before drinking, however, to excess, reason returned to its throne, and conscience resumed her balance. He went to the Executive Committee of the society, acknowledged his fault, asked forgiveness, and renewed his pledge. The next evening he made two powerful speeches at a temperance meeting—the first acknowledged his direliction, and the second an eloquent appeal to young men, a large number of whom joined. Had he taken a few steps more on the downward road, commenced by him, he would have been lost irretrievably.—Ind. Register.

PENNSYLVANIA COLLEGE, Gettysburg,

Pennsylvania.

FACULTY AND INSTRUCTORS.

Rev. C. P. KRAUTH, D. D., President and Professor of Moral Science.
Rev. H. S. BAUGHEN, A. M., Professor of Greek and Rhetoric.
Rev. M. JACOBS, A. M., Professor of Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, &c.
Rev. W. M. REYNOLDS, A. M., Professor of Latin, Mental Philosophy, &c.
M. L. STORVER, A. M., Professor of History and Principal of Preparatory Department.
Rev. C. A. HAY, A. M., Professor of German Language and Literature.
HERMAN HAUPT, A. M., Professor of Mathematics.
WM. HENRY HARRISON, A. B., Assistant Professor of Languages.
DAVID GILBERT, M. D., Lecturer on Anatomy and Physiology.
Rev. J. G. MORRIS, D. D., Lecturer on Zoology.
WM. ALBAUGH, A. M., Tutor and Teacher in Preparatory Department.
H. R. GEIGER, Teacher of Writing.

The course of studies in Pennsylvania College is as extensive and substantial as that of any institution in the country. The Preparatory Department provides for instruction in all the branches of a thorough English business education, in addition to the Elements of the Mathematics and Classical Literature. The College course is arranged in the four classes usual in the institutions of this country.

The government of the students is as energetic as their circumstances seem to require. They attend at least two recitations a day, and the Faculty contemplate increasing them to three, Church and Bible Class on the Sabbath, and are visited in their rooms so frequently as to preclude the danger of any great irregularities. It is believed no institution in the United States has more exemplary young men in connexion with it. They are all required to lodge in the College edifice, special cases excepted.

The annual expenses are—for board, tuition and room rent, during the winter session $61 87 1-2; for the summer session, $41 87 1-2; washing, $10; wood, $3 00. Total expense, $116 75. Boarding can be had in town at $1 25 per week.

There are two vacations in the year, commencing on the third Thursdays of April and September; each of five weeks continuance.

The summer session will commence on Thursday, the 22d of May. The annual commencement takes place on the third Thursday in September.

The Trustees have recently made various arrangements which will increase the efficiency of the institution. They have increased the number of Professors and provided for the most ample instruction of the students.

Professor Baughen and Haupt are prepared to board boys and to exercise a special supervision over their studies and deportment, and Parents who may prefer placing their sons under their care, will be secure in regard to their proper management, under arrangements such as pertain to the family circle.

HUNT'S MERCHANTS' MAGAZINE,

AND COMMERCIAL REVIEW,

BY FREEMAN HUNT, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR, Published monthly, at 142 Fulton street, New York—at Five Dollars per annum, in advance.

The Merchants' Magazine and Commercial Review, embraces every subject connected with Commerce, Manufactures and Political Economy, as follows: Commercial Legislation; Commercial History and Geography; Mercantile Biography; Descriptive, Statistical and Historical Accounts, of the various commodities which form the subject of Mercantile transactions; Port Charges; Tariffs; Customs and Excise Regulations; Commercial Statistics of the United States and the different countries of the world, with which we have intercourse, including their Physical Character, Population, Productions, Exports, Imports, Seaports, Monies, Weights, Measures, Finance and Banking Associations, and Enterprises connected with Commerce, embracing Fisheries, Incorporated Companies, Railroads, Canals, Steamboats, Docks, Post Offices, &c.; Principles of Commerce, Finance and Banking, with Practical and Historical Details and Illustrations; Commercial Law, and Mercantile Law Reports and Decisions of Courts in the United States and Europe, including Insurance, Partnership, Principal and Agent, Bills of Exchange, Sale, Guaranty, Bankruptcy, Shipping and Navigation, &c., and whatever else shall tend to develop the resources of the country and the world, and illustrate the various topics bearing upon Commerce and Commercial Literature.

It has been, and will continue to be, the aim of the Editor and Proprietor of the Merchants' Magazine, to avoid everything of a party, political, or sectional bias or bearing, in the conduct of the work—opening its pages to the free and fair discussion of antagonistic doctrines connected with the great interests of Commerce, Agriculture, Manufactures and the Currency.

Complete sets of the Merchants' Magazine, embracing 12 semi-annual volumes, of about 600 large octavo pages each, bringing it down to June, 1844, inclusive, may be obtained at the Publisher's Office, 142 Fulton street, New York, at the subscription price.

Publishers of newspapers in the United States, by giving this advertisement two or three insertions and remitting Two Dollars to the Proprietor, will be entitled to the Magazine for one year.
